This group of workshops is intended to help you with your farm transition/succession plan. At first, this process may seem daunting, but it doesn't have to be that way.

This is not typically something that is done quickly, so you should prioritize some time to work on this plan like you would any other farm activity. Seek to develop your plan in a thoughtful manner, keeping your family goals in mind: a plan that provides financial security to the senior generation, provides opportunities to the younger generation, and maintains family harmony.

While you may not learn everything about farm transfer, you will become familiar with the concepts on how these plans work and you will be able to get the process started. Look at the back of this sheet for a list of workshops and sign up for one near you.
